

City of Las Vegas Trail Facts

The city of Las Vegas offers many ways for the community to discover, explore and enjoy the new trails that have been built in neighborhoods throughout Las Vegas.

Currently there are approximately 51 miles of trails for walking, biking and other non-motorized activities that feature landscaping, rest areas, benches, lighting, trash cans and pet waste stations. There are also 11 miles of equestrian trails.

The Las Vegas City Council's ultimate plan is to construct a 239-mile trail network that, when completed, will interconnect the Redrock Canyon National Conservation Area, the outlying northwest and west areas through downtown Las Vegas to the mature east Las Vegas neighborhoods. The master plan includes 194 miles of shared-use trails and 45 miles of equestrian trails.

The Las Vegas community is already enjoying these trail treasures:

- Angel Park Trail is approximately three miles in length, running south along Durango Drive, from Bruce Trent Park to Angel Park, continuing west adjacent to the Angel Park Golf Course to Alta Drive. The Angel Park Trailhead serves the trail just south of the Summerlin Parkway.
- Located on Hualapai Way, north of Alta Drive is the newly constructed Hualapai Canyon Trailhead, which is an open space trail facility with the potential to eventually connect to the Angel Park Trail.
- The first phase of the Las Vegas Wash Trail runs from Stewart Avenue, between Marion Drive and Nellis Boulevard, proceeding northward along the Las Vegas Wash, crossing Bonanza Road, Washington Avenue, and Lamb Boulevard, to Owens Avenue, with a connection to the Cedar Drainage Trail.
- The Cedar Drainage Trail runs 1.5 miles along the Cedar drainage channel, from Pecos Road to the Las Vegas Wash, between Bonanza Road and Stewart Avenue.
- The newest segment of the Bonanza Trail is located north of the Summerlin Parkway, connecting Bill Briare Family Park to the Charlie Kellogg - Joe Zaher Sports Complex, as it continues south on Tenaya Way to Westcliff Drive.
- The Buckskin Cliff Shadows Trailhead is located west of the 215 Beltway and west of Cliff Shadows Parkway at Cheyenne Avenue.
- The Gilmore Cliff Shadows Trailhead is located along the north side of Alexander Road, to the west of the 215 Beltway and west of Cliff Shadows Parkway.
- The Pioneer Trail begins east of Interstate 15 on Las Vegas Boulevard, between Bonanza Road and Washington Avenue. It runs north to Owens Avenue, south on Main Street, and heads west on Washington. The trail makes its way through Historic West Las Vegas, affectionally referred to as "The West Side," highlighting historic properties zigzagging through the surrounding urban area, eventually arriving at the Las Vegas Springs Preserve on Valley View Drive.

Las Vegas has an abundance of park pathways for biking, walking, and even horseback riding at some locations:

- A 1.9-mile trail meanders through the Kellogg-Zaher Sports Complex, at 7901 W. Washington Ave.
- Bruce Trent Park, at 8851 Vegas Drive, has a 1.59-mile pathway.
- Children's Memorial Park, at 6601 W. Gowan Road, has a one-mile trail.
- Floyd Lamb Park at Tule Springs, at 9200 Tule Springs Road, features equestrian trails.

Other parks with trails include:

- AnSan Sister City Park at 7801 Ducharme Ave.
- Sunny Springs Park at 7620 Golden Talon Ave.
- Buckskin Cliff Shadows Park at the west end of Cheyenne Avenue and Cliff Shadows Parkway.

Several trail projects are in construction:

- Construction of the final segments of the Lone Mountain Trail has begun along the Buffalo Drainage Channel, between Buffalo Drive and Tenaya Way, from Vegas Drive north to Lake Mead Boulevard. Another segment will be installed north of Cheyenne Avenue to Atwood Avenue. Two pedestrian bridges at Lake Mead and Cheyenne are part of the construction (tentative opening Second Quarter 2011).
- A pedestrian bridge for the future Cultural Corridor Trail is being constructed on Las Vegas Boulevard just south of Washington Avenue, between the Lied Discovery Children's Museum/Las Vegas Library and the Las Vegas Natural History Museum (tentative opening Third Quarter 2011).

Trail projects to begin construction in 2010:

- The next segment of the Bonanza Trail will be constructed from the intersection of Rainbow Boulevard and Westcliff Drive, running east along the south side of U.S. Highway 95, crossing to the north side at Jones Boulevard, running eastward to Valley View Boulevard. The trail will then head south on Valley View to Alta Drive (tentative opening Second Quarter 2011).
- Approximately four miles of trails will be constructed as part of the Environmental Enhancement Areas project at Floyd Lamb Park at Tule Springs. The park can be accessed via Durango Drive and Brent Lane, north of Racel Street (tentative opening First Quarter 2012).
- Before the end of 2010, construction will begin on a park, trailhead and bridge facilities on both sides of the Las Vegas Wash at Sandhill Road, south of Owens Avenue, along the newly constructed Las Vegas Wash Trail Phase 1 (tentative opening Third Quarter 2011).

Trail funding is provided by the Bureau of Land Management through the sale of public lands as authorized by the Southern Nevada Public Land Management Act. This act keeps money from Nevada federal land sales in the state for parks and trail projects.
